The question involved was the constitutionality of an act of the West Virginia Legislature [laws of 1872, 3, chapter 47] excluding colored citizens from jury service in the courts of that State. The court holds that when a colored citizen is tried for his life by a jury from which citizens of his own race are by the State statute expressly excluded he is denied equal protection of the law guaranteed by the third clause of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution, and that the statute denying him such right is repugnant to said Constitutional provision.
